The Journey Unfolds...

Orientation: Stepping stones

The ten days orientation programme at the Department of Social Work quelled our doubts and turned out to be a guide to the journey ahead. The orientation proved to be the starting point of our foray into the dynamic world of Social Work. As is natural, we were apprehensive at first about the events that were to unfold but this in no way dampened our excitement to make new friends or diminished our curiosity to enter a whole new world. The ten day long orientation programme systematically introduced us to the course curriculum. It not only helped us to start looking at prevailing developmental paradigms from a critical perspective but also provided us an enlightening insight into the profession of Social Work both as it is theorised as well as it is practised in India. Additionally, the orientation was packed with exciting activities including ice breaking sessions, exposure visits, skill building sessions etc. To sum it all up, the orientation was the beginning of an enthralling journey that was to ensue in the form of our course with the promise to help us in fulfilling our social dreams and to help us achieve great milestones in our chosen careers.
