An international workshop on Inclusive Cities is going to be held on 19th & 20th December 2016 at Jamia Millia Islamia, Central University, New Delhi. Prof. Sheila Mitra Sarkar from San Diego State University, California, USA & Ar.Kulsum Fatima from Department of Architecture, Jamia Millia Islamia, New Delhi, India will be co-chairing the international workshop.

The workshop is multi-disciplinary and open-ended platform to bring in ideas and innovations from urban thought leaders & researchers. It intends to bring together international and national experts to share their work in making cities inclusive. The participants from India, US, Netherlands, London, United Kingdom, Kingdom of Saudi Arabia, Egypt & Austria will “walk the talk” for inclusive cities.

"Inclusive Cities" will analyse the current scenario, where cities across the world are suffering from economic downturns, climate changes, population migration from war zone, water & energy shortages, problems for affordable housing, education, food security, access and safety to all and other conflicts around the world while empowering the under-served.

The workshop is entitled as ‘Inclusive Cities’ and focuses on the co-existence of variable interlined aspects composing the structure of a city. There are lectures by renowned speakers from around the globe, experts and scholars of different fields and discussion sessions of utmost value. In addition, there will be a fish bowl event for the involvement of speakers in a generalised talk over floating topics. Road Safety Audit is also a part of this composure as it tops the segments of Inclusive cities. The schedule also includes breakout sessions during the event.
